Today's Game

By Tim Bourret

The Clemson football class of '81 will attempt to close its chapter on Tiger football just as it began when Danny Ford's team attempts to capture beyond mathematical doubt, the ACC championship with a victory over Maryland this afternoon. As yearlings on the 1978 Clemson team, many of this year's crop of seniors traveled to College Park, MD, for one of the greatest showdowns in ACC history (for more on this game see page 100). Clemson came back with a 28-24 victory and its first ACC title in 11 years.

And now, four days short of four years later, the Tigers can do it again with a victory over Maryland. It would be fitting for this class to close its final home game with an ACC title, because the accomplishments of Clemson football under this regime are unparalleled. Steve Fuller and company, Charlie Waters and his group, and many other current pro stars did not experience this degree of team success during their eras.

This class has an overall record of 34-10 heading into its final two weeks of play and that is already an all-time record for most wins by a class. The class of 1980 registered 33 victories during its time, so this crop has already eclipsed that mark. Hopefully, this group still has three victories left in them.

"This is probably the best group of seniors I have ever worked with," said Clemson Head Coach Danny Ford. "Leadership has been one of the reasons for our success this year and I know it is the major difference between this team and the 1980 squad. These 19 seniors have been dedicated to one team goal all season and that has been the key. Their attitude has drifted down to the rest of the squad and that is probably why we are 9-0."

But, of course a successful team needs talent in addition to heart and maturity. In Jeff Davis and Perry Tuttle, Clemson has seen two of the finest players in Tiger history. Coming into today's game Tuttle is already Clemson's career leader in reception yardage and he needs only eight more catches to establish the career mark for most receptions. His roommate, Jeff Davis, has been the leader of the Clemson defense for the last two seasons and his 424 tackles over the last four seasons speak well of his contributions for his entire career. Both Tuttle and Davis will receive countless votes for various All-America teams when this season concludes.

The Tigers have dominated teams in the trenches this season and the performance of Ford's offensive line has been outstanding. Four of the five starters in the interior of the line are seniors who will have earned 12 varsity letters by the time this season has concluded. Tackle Lee Nanney is the leader of the crew and is a legitimate All-America candidate. He has graded the highest of any offensive lineman at Clemson over the last four years and is a returning member of the all-conference team.

Center Tony Berryhill, guard Brian Clark and tackle Brad Fisher have opened holes that even Danny Ford could use to gain five yards a carry. All three have been selected as either state or ACC Lineman-of-the-Week at one time or another this season.

A sixth senior starter on offense is Jerry Gaillard. In three years as a wide receiver in Perry Tuttle's shadow all Gaillard has done is move into the top 10 in career receiving at Clemson. He had four catches last week in the big win at North Carolina to lead Clemson in that department and needs only 11 more receptions to go ahead of Joey Walters, Bennie Cunningham and Charlie Waters. That is some pretty good company for that "other" wide receiver.

Defensively, four starters will be playing in their final contest in Tigertown. Jeff Bryant might be the most improved defensive tackle in the country and he has been a major reason Clemson has done so well in the national defensive statistics this year. The Atlanta, GA, native has made 17 tackles for negative yardage and he needs only four more tackles behind the line of scrimmage to set a new single-season record. Bill Smith is another senior on the front five who has served as a starter and dependable reserve this season. In a career plagued by trips to the doctor, Smith has played three different positions over his five years in Tigertown.

Two more senior starters are in the secondary on the corners. Roommates Hollis Hall and Anthony Rose have patrolled the secondary for the last three years and, despite their size, have held their own with anyone. Hall has four interceptions this year to rank second on the club, while Rose has two thefts and a fumble recovery, a very important gain at North Carolina last week.

Eight more seniors have been outstanding reserves over the last four years and, despite never having started a contest, have played key roles in Clemson's 34 wins since 1978. Lockie Brown (PK from Tucker, GA), Nick Bowman (LB, Crossville, TN), Randy Cheek (LB, Augusta, GA), Pete Demery (WR, Kingstree, SC), Mike Gasque (QB, Elon College, NC), Cliff McLellan (LB, Pendleton, SC), Mike Wake (DE, Greer, SC) and Scott Weeks (OG, Jackson, SC) have all been responsible for Clemson's success and deserve credit for the rise in Tiger football in the last few years.

It will take a unified effort to cap their respective careers with a victory over the Tony Berryhill, Brian Clark, Brad Fisher and Lee Nanney are four seniors who have helped Clemson to go 9-0 this year.

Deja Vu for Tiger Seniors

Terrapins because Maryland has dominated the contemporary edition of this series. In fact, Maryland has beaten Clemson in eight of the last nine years, and Jerry Claiborne has won four straight over Clemson in Death Valley. Nobody does that!

Odds makers believe the Terrapins have a good chance for an upset today because Maryland happens to be sandwiched around North Carolina and South Carolina on the Clemson schedule. That happened last year and Maryland won 34-9, the last time Clemson has suffered a loss, and the worst defeat Ford has suffered at Clemson since taking over as the head man.

So, this group of seniors would like to forget about the last two contests with Maryland (Clemson was shut out at home, 19-0, in 1979), but an ACC championship clinching victory today, just might make those frustrating memories vanish completely.

In addition to the football players, seniors in other areas of the football program have made a significant contribution over the last four years. Managers Lawrence Mudge and Steve Rivers, and trainers Jay Bennett, Tony Blackwell, Greg Craig, Joe Franks and Vann Yates will all be serving the Tiger gridders on the field for a final time. And, in the press box, Clemson senior Berny Delgado will be in her final game as a sports information assistant.

The Other Side

By Tim Bourret

Perry Tuttle has gained quite a bit of notoriety over the last four years. His accomplishments on the gridiron have allowed him to live in the limelight. One would believe that some distinguished people have had an important influence on his life since coming to Clemson from Winston-Salem, NC in 1978. But, the articulate Tuttle is quick to point out it is not a famous coach, pro scout or teammate who has influenced his life the most, but an unintentional incident with a 10-year-old boy.

"One day in the off-season during my sophomore year, I was shopping in a store in downtown Clemson," said Tuttle. "I was with a couple of friends and we were kidding each other about something unrelated to shopping. During the conversation I used a word I shouldn't have, but I didn't think anyone was around to hear."

"The next day I received a call from a woman who said her young son had been using a word during the day that she did not like. Her son said he thought it was all right to use because he had heard Perry Tuttle use it when he was talking to his friends in a store."

"That made me feel bad and I apologized to the mother. When I hung up the phone I did some thinking about the impact an athlete can have on young people or the public in general. It had never really occurred to me before, but I obviously was being looked up to by this young boy."

The incident made Tuttle realize his possible effect on people, especially those in the formative years. "Since that experience I have tried to act with responsibility. I don't say this with a big head, but kids look up to football players or any athletes and the athlete in turn has a responsibility to set a good example. This occurrence really hit home to me, so since then I have been more careful. I concentrate on setting a good example for people and my teammates and this has made me a better person. When I leave Clemson I want to be remembered as an All-American off the field."

"When my parents were growing up, they had sports stars or movie stars to look up to. That is important when you are growing up, you need to have some guidance. Today, the amount of people we have to look up to has declined. It almost seems like the only heroes left are those in cartoons, like Superman or some other character. Not having human heroes is dangerous, so if I can be a hero to some person and set a good example it makes me feel good."

There have been other maturing experiences at Clemson for Perry Tuttle, who is playing his final game in Death Valley today. During his career he has grown with the experiences the Tiger football team has encountered, something that is an education in itself.

"When I first came to Clemson we went 11-1 and everything came easy. My second year we went to another bowl game and things were going great again. But, last year we lost our unity and fell to 6-5 and had internal problems. There were no major problems, but when you are losing, things get blown out of proportion."

"But as I look back on the whole situation, it was good for me and everyone else because we grew up. We were a young team last year that had to go through every growing pain imaginable. But, we overcame the adversity and when we started this year we were a unified team. We learned a lot about dealing with each other in 1980 and it has made team leadership a lot easier in 1981."

This 1981 season will be Perry Tuttle's last at Clemson. It has been a rewarding and record-setting career as he closes in on nearly all of Jerry Butler's career records. While he will leave Clemson as one of its most decorated offensive players of all-time, Tuttle will bring something else with him that is far more important. "I will have fond memories of Clemson because of its people. When I visited Clemson in 1977, I came for the Notre Dame game in Death Valley. The Tiger spirit that day was great, I don't think we sat down the entire game. Notre Dame came back in the end to win the game, but the Clemson fans were behind the team the whole time and continued to be even after the loss."

"That impressed me and that feeling carries over to the student body and the administrators. You just have a good feeling about the people here."

When Tuttle departs Clemson at the end of this season, most feel a pro career awaits the elusive wide receiver. But, if that does not develop, it will not be the end of the world. "I won't be one to wait around all summer hoping for a shot at the pros. I want to try to make it in the NFL, but if it does not work out, it won't bother me."

"If I had not received a scholarship to college, I probably wouldn't have gone because our family just didn't have the money to send me. So, I appreciate the value of the free education Clemson is giving me. I'll have only one more semester to go after this spring and I know I can make it in another field."

And, unlike many athletes or ex-athletes, Tuttle does not want to have an occupation related to athletics. "I have been playing football since I was in the fourth grade," continued Clemson's All-America hopeful, "and I will want to try another field when my career is over. It will be time to move on to greener pastures. I'll never be a coach, that is the last thing on earth I will get into."

So, what field interests the administrative management major? "I would like to work for a big corporation in sales because I enjoy dealing with people. I like the magnitude of the major corporations and would enjoy traveling."

Perry Tuttle is an ebullient young man who is multidimensional. He won't have to rely on professional football to be successful, although that probably will be his profession for the next few years. But, no matter what course his life takes, he undoubtedly will have a positive influence on anyone he meets, just as a young man influenced him in an innocent setting in Clemson two years ago.

Thanksgiving

Ed. Note—

Thanksgiving is a special holiday in most every household. For the Clemson football wives though, it's a homecoming of sorts since their husbands finally return to family life after a long hard football season. The football wives then, would like to share a few of their holiday thoughts and recipes with you, the Tiger fans, as an expression of their thanks. Happy holidays!

Kim Kelly

T.D.'s PUNCH

Juice of four lemons
2 measuring glasses cognac
¾ measuring glass maraschino
¾ measuring glass Curacao
Dash of yellow chartreuse
2 qts. champagne
1 qt. soda water
1 qt. ginger ale
Sugar to taste

Pour all ingredients into bowl that is filled with one large cube of ice. Stir well. Decorate with: very thin slices of lemon and orange and a few wedges of pineapple. Some cherries and sprigs of fresh mint may also be added. A delicious way to celebrate a Clemson victory!

I have rather unorthodox cooking methods, (most everything I cook is on high heat and completed in 45 minutes.) So Thanksgiving is a time for our family to gather together and enjoy each other's company and laugh at all of the funny dishes that I've prepared. We've found this recipe to be marvelous not only after celebrating the end of my Thanksgiving meal but also for any other good times.

— Toni Denning

Tigers Honor

By Jeff Rhodes

The ninth annual induction ceremonies for the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame will be held today at halftime as five athletes, one coach and one administrator will join the elite group of 48 members already enshrined.

The 1981 inductees include basketball standout Larry "Choppy" Patterson and football stars Charlie Waters, Joe Net Berry, R. G. Hamilton and Harvey White. In addition, Dr. Lee Milford and Coach John Heisman will be inducted.

Choppy Patterson was a master of the two-hand overhead set shot and he used that shot to earn a spot on the 1960 All-ACC team. He was voted second-team all-league in 1961 and was also a member of the second-team All-ACC Tournament team that year.

Patterson was the leading scorer and free throw shooter for Press Maravich's team in 1959-60 and 1960-61. He suffered an injury in an auto accident in 1961 that forced him to miss the 1961-62 season and his scoring dropped in his final season, 1962-63. But, he still ranks in the top five in eight Clemson categories. The present lawyer now residing in Greenville, SC, averaged 19 points per game in his career.

During most of his football career, Charlie Waters has either thrown, caught, or intercepted passes. The present Dallas Cowboys star arrived in Tigertown as a quarterback, but was switched to wide receiver for his final 15 games. As a Cowboy for 11 years, Waters has intercepted 40 passes. He still holds the NFL record for playoff game interceptions with nine and has been All-Pro twice (1977 and 1978).

At Clemson, the resident of Dallas was an All-ACC choice at wide receiver in his senior season and played in the College All-Star game in Chicago. He once caught 10 passes for 144 yards in a game against Alabama, the second best single game total in Clemson history.

Net Berry is a Hall of Fame selection from the 1935 to 1944 era. Berry was captain of Jess Neely's (another Hall of Famer at Clemson) 1936 team. A starting tailback in 1935 and 1936, Berry was the leading rusher in 1935 when he carried 99 times for 457 yards. He was also the leading passer that season when he completed 42 of 72 passes for 422 yards. A native of Union, SC, he was an honorable mention All-America selection that year.

For the past 10 years, the R. G. Hamilton Award has been presented to the most valuable player of the Clemson football team. Few people know who this award is named for, but today Mr. Hamilton is finally getting some recognition.

Hamilton was a starting right halfback for Clemson on the Tigers' first football squad in 1896. He also was the first captain Clemson ever had. Obviously there are no records of his play, but many newspaper accounts document his fine performance and determination.

Harvey White quarterbacked the Tigers to two bowl games (in the late 1950s), a statement only a couple of Clemson players can make. The resident of Charlotte, NC, still ranks high in the Clemson records books as he is sixth in passing and ninth in career total offense.

White was equally proficient in the classroom as he was voted to the Academic All-ACC team in 1958 and 1959. He also was co-captain of the 1959 squad, his senior season.

Dr. Lee Milford is one of today's special inductees. Milford was a rarity in collegiate administration as he served as both team physician and Chairman of Clemson's Athletic Council at the same time.

He was team physician for nearly 30 years and served as Athletic Council Chairman for 1930 to 1954.

The seventh member inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame is probably the most famous college football figure in its annals. John Heisman coached at Clemson from 1900 to 1903 and won 19 games, while losing three and tying two. He had many famous innovations, including legalizing the forward pass, instituting the center snap and many other developments. He is the man the New York Downtown Athletic Club named the Heisman Trophy after, the famous award given to the best college football player in America.

At Clemson, Heisman coached the school's first undefeated and untied team when he led the 1900 team to a 6-0 record. That team outscored its opponents 164-10. Heisman also was the first Clemson coach to beat Georgia and Georgia Tech in the same season (1902).

Danny Ford

Danny Ford is the youngest third-year coach in Division I of the NCAA, but the 33-year-old Gadsden, Alabama native has been associated with more winning teams and programs than many coaches come in contact with in a lifetime. Including his years as a player at Alabama under Bear Bryant, Ford has been associated with college football for the last 14 years. Thirteen of those clubs have had winning records and 10 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, the 14 teams have had a record of 111-47-3, a .700 winning percentage.

Ford has brought this winning attitude to Clemson University. Now in his third full season as head coach, Ford has led the Tigers to a 15-9 record and a pair of bowl games since taking over on December 10, 1978. That was a fine day in Clemson athletics because the University announced Charley Pell had relinquished the head coaching duties of the 1978 Gator Bowl to Ford. Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Frank Howard, Clemson had hired another gifted 31-year-old to lead the Tiger forces on the gridiron.

Ford conquered all kinds of adversity in leading the Tigers to a nationally televised 17-15 triumph over the perennial power Ohio State in the Gator Bowl in his very first game as head coach. Few mentors in NCAA history have made such a celebrated and successful beginning.

But Ford did not rest on his laurels after that landmark win over the Buckeyes. In the last two years the Tigers have won 14 games, (including wins over nationally ranked teams from Georgia, Notre Dame and South Carolina) gone to a bowl game, nearly upset the National Champion and set countless Clemson records.

With this list of accomplishments it is little wonder that the Student Affairs Committee of the Clemson Board of Trustees only considered one name as Pell's successor. Danny Ford not only had the backing of Pell, but also from the members of the Clemson football team. He was then Assistant Head Coach and offensive line coach of the Tigers.

After two meetings between Ford and the committee on the morning of December 5, 1978, it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that Ford should be named Clemson's 21st head coach.

Ford began his association with college football in 1967 when he started for Bear Bryant at Alabama as Ken Stabler's sophomore tight end. He played three years for Bryant, (including three wins against the Tigers) and was an All-Southeastern Conference choice, All-SEC academic selection and team captain during his senior season.

After receiving his B.S. degree in industrial arts in 1970, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. Upon earning a master's degree in special education in 1971, he was made a full-time assistant under Bryant for the 1972 and 1973 seasons. The Tide went to four more post-season games while Ford was on Bryant's staff.

Clemson's current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach on Jimmy Sharpe's staff at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974 to 1976), before he was beckoned to Clemson by Charley Pell, who had just been named the Tiger's head coach. Pell and Ford had served together on the VPI staff for two seasons.

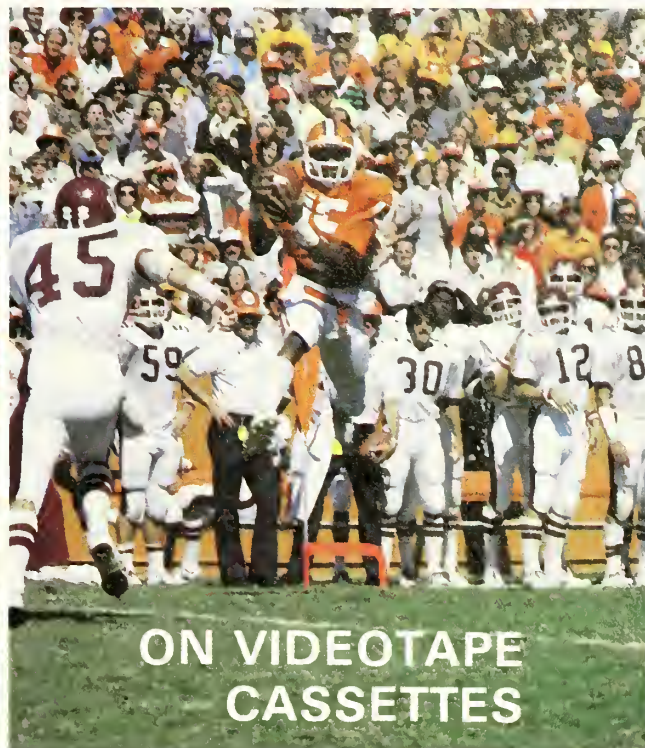

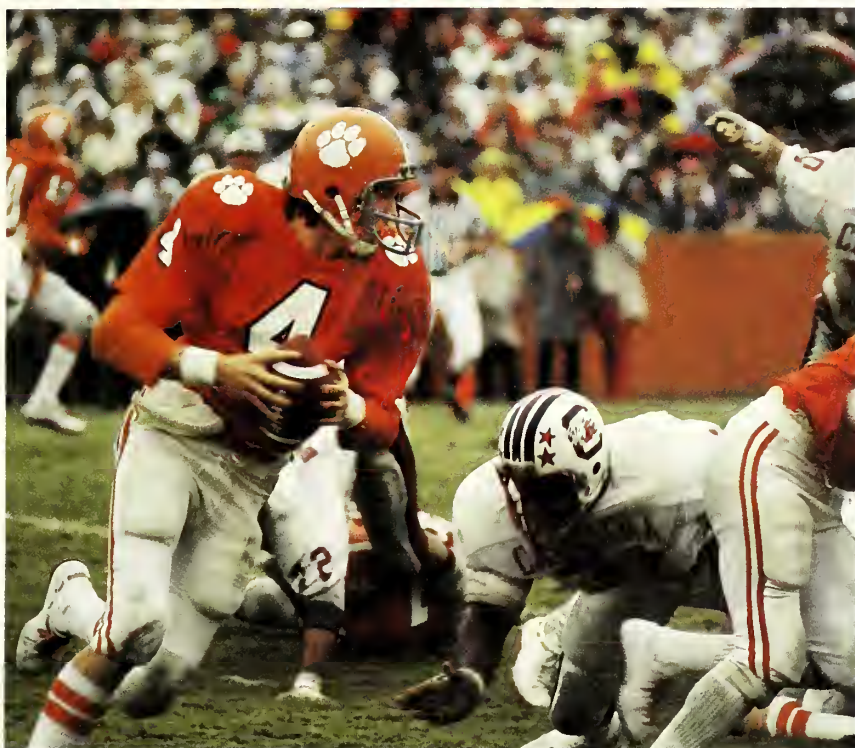

And only 23 games later, Ford became head coach of the Tigers at age 31, the youngest Division I head coach in the country. This season his Clemson team has 17 starters returning, including all 11 off an exciting offense. Based on his past track record, Clemson football should continue to reach previously unattainable heights.

Athletic

The 1980-81 academic year marked the fifth consecutive season that Clemson's all-around sports program had been ranked in the top 25 in the nation. Twice during that half a decade Clemson's sports program has been rated in the top five in the country in the Knoxville Journal's All-Sports Poll. Without a doubt, the work of Athletic Director Bill McLellan and his dedicated corps of coaches and administrators is the major reason for this consistent appearance in the national limelight.

McLellan is the man most responsible. He has endured countless hours to improve every phase of the athletic program in Tigertown. Under his direction Clemson has built one of the finest all-around athletic facilities in the nation. During his tenure the Tigers have christened the Frank Johnstone Jervey Athletic Center, possibly the most modern and complete complex under one roof, increased the permanent seating capacity of Clemson Memorial Stadium from 43,451 to 53,306, opened a beautiful swimming facility, which will be the site of the ACC meet this year, constructed a nine-lane all-weather track, and built a new soccer facility.

While he has erected an athletic powerhouse on the varsity level, McLellan has also developed a solid intramural program for the student body which attracts thousands of participants every year. That's why Bill McLellan is recognized as a total athletic director.

Only the third man to own the title in the last 50 years, McLellan assumed his present position February 4, 1971 and since that date has directed Clemson to its greatest decade of athletic prominence. In the last five years Clemson had more All-Americans than in any other five-year period in Clemson history.

An examination of McLellan's experience in athletics explains why Clemson has been so successful under his direction. A native of Hamer, SC, the 49-year-old McLellan was a two-time football letterman for the Tigers and a member of Clemson's 1952 Gator Bowl team. He received his B.S. degree from Clemson in 1954 and his M.S. two years later.

After joining the athletic staff in 1958 he spent more than a decade with the Tigers as an Assistant Football Coach, Assistant Business Manager, Assistant Athletic Director, and Associate Athletic Director, before his appointment to his current position.

But McLellan will be the first man to say that many knowledgeable people are needed to run an efficient and successful athletic department. Assistant Athletic Director Bobby Robinson is the catalyst of McLellan's group of responsible aides.

Assistant to the Athletic Director Earle Ambrose; Joe Turner, Executive Director of Clemson's very successful IPTAY Club; and Sports Promotion Director Allison Dalton are major reasons Clemson's athletic administration is among the best in the country.

The tiger, a long-time symbol of strength and aggressiveness for Clemson University, now assumes another prestigious role. The Order of the Silver Tiger is a new giving level recognizing alumni, parents, friends, faculty and staff who have given a minimum of $500 annually to the Clemson University Annual Fund.

Gifts to Clemson University enable deserving students to receive scholarships, add volumes to the Robert Muldrow Cooper Library, bring professors of distinction from other colleges and universities to campus for varying periods to share their expertise, and finance alumni professorships awarded to outstanding faculty members. These are just a few of the ways your gifts will be used to help secure Clemson University's future.

Your gift not only benefits the University, but also entitles you to become a charter member of the Order of the Silver Tiger, a new recognition program for your giving level.

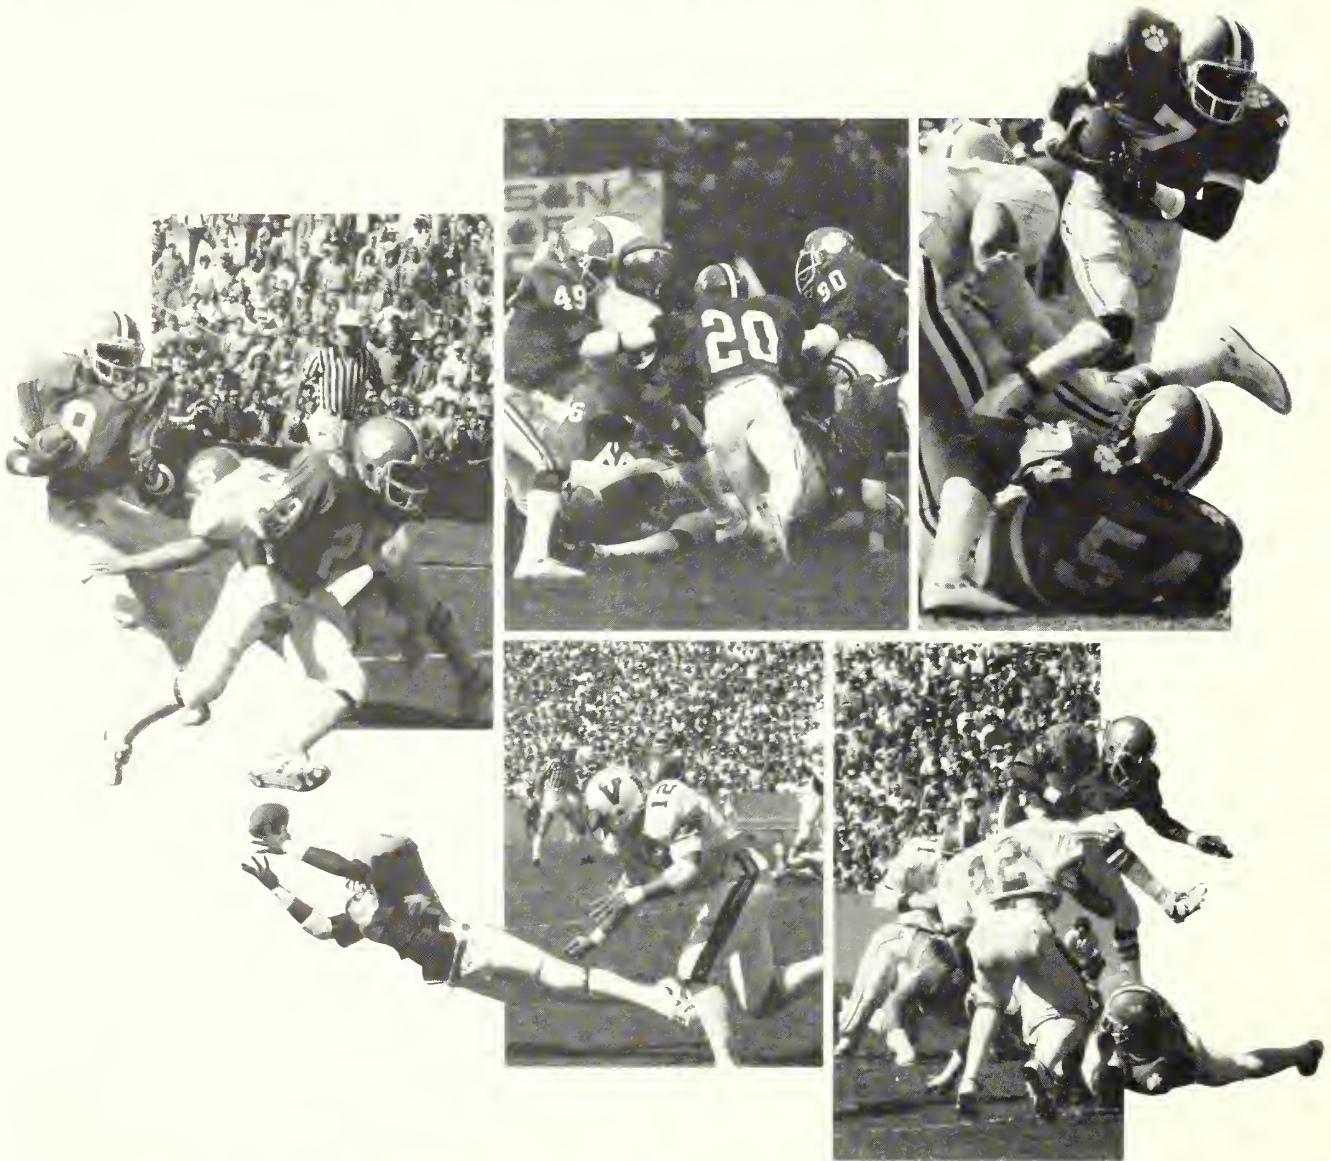

As a Silver Tiger you will be recognized in the Clemson Honor Roll; honored at a special reception during the year and receive this distinctive Silver Tiger desk piece sculptured by Detter Hefner.

Through the Order of the Silver Tiger we can say "Thanks" for all you do for Clemson University.

Clemson's IPTAY Club

By Lt. William Kelly Durham

Number One. There's magic in those two words. Every team battles for the privilege to be called number one, to be recognized as the best. The road to the top is long and rocky and of those teams that become number one, few remain so for very long.

But, one Clemson team is defying the odds as it celebrates its third consecutive year as number one in the nation. IPTAY, Clemson's athletic scholarship fund-raising organization, experienced in fiscal year 1981 the most successful year of any collegiate athletic scholarship fund-raising group in history.

IPTAY enjoyed its 17th consecutive record-setting year in 1981, with total money raised cresting the three million dollar mark. Twenty-thousand members strong, IPTAY is accustomed to success, having raised almost 18 million dollars for Clemson in the last forty-seven years. What's the key to IPTAY's phenomenal success?

"Without a doubt, Clemson people have made IPTAY the best," says Joseph J. Turner, Jr., IPTAY's Executive Secretary. "Our IPTAY representatives are people from across the state and the Southeast who love Clemson University and who want to help Clemson in any way. These folks spend a lot of their time arranging meetings and visiting other Clemson supporters. They're the ones who keep IPTAY head and shoulders above the rest."

IPTAY officers like President John Timmerman, Vice President Bill Reaves and Secretary-Treasurer Lawrence Starkey, Jr., provide sound leadership for the organization.

"IPTAY's officers and board of directors provide the guidance and judgment necessary to administer a successful program. When you take 20 successful businessmen and put them in your boardroom, chances are good ideas will develop," says Turner.

Good ideas were the basis for IPTAY's creation forty-seven years ago. Dr. Rupert Fike and eight other Clemson men met in Fike's Atlanta home in August, 1934 and founded the I-Pay-Ten-A-Year Club. Originally, IPTAY was a secret society, complete with mystic words and ritualistic ceremonies. Membership was by invitation only.

All that's changed now, but one thing that hasn't changed is IPTAY's purpose: to provide athletic scholarships for Clemson's student-athletes. In the 1980-81 academic year, IPTAY provided more than one million dollars in scholarships for 405 athletes in 19 varsity sports.

IPTAY's tremendous success has made it possible for the organization to aid the athletic department and the university in many ways. In 1978, IPTAY provided funds for new uniforms for the Tiger Band. The band has received $130,000 from IPTAY in the last two years to supplement its travel budget. This year, the Tiger Band will attend all of Clemson's football games, home and away.

IPTAY has assisted the athletic department in financing capital improvements also. More than $150,000 has been allocated by IPTAY to construct permanent seats at the Tigers' tennis courts and baseball field. IPTAY also donated $22,000 to light the new soccer stadium on Riggs Field.

More than $300,000 was provided by IPTAY for improvements to Memorial Stadium last year. New stadium graphics, a modern sound system and two new scoreboards help make Death Valley one of the finest stadiums in the Southeast.

The needs of students are also recognized by IPTAY. The organization makes academic tutoring available to all student-athletes at no charge. IPTAY also has contributed a $125,000 seed grant to begin planning for a Fine Arts Center to be used by all members of the university community. Forty thousand dollars has been contributed by IPTAY for partial funding of a master transportation plan for the University.

"Our commitment is to Clemson and Clemson students," says Turner. "IPTAY is doing several things to make Clemson athletics stronger and to benefit the university as a whole."

With 20,000 Clemson people dedicated to these twin goals, IPTAY can't help but stay number one.

Are you ready for the 21st century? Clemson University can honestly answer, "Absolutely!"

Almost 12,000 students and scientists alike are already working on tools for living in the changing, demanding world of the 1980s and '90s. Tools for communicating, for living with decreased fossil fuels, for making industry and agriculture more productive.

Clemson is deeply involved in what is probably the nation's most critical problem—the lack of a dependable, renewable source of energy. In 1981, faculty and student research projects will explore creating synthetic fuels from farm and forestry products, perfecting the solar energy cell, developing economical conservation methods for the state's textile plants and building a moderately-priced home heated with a completely passive solar system.

Today's students realize computers will soon be as much a part of life as television. They're learning to build the sophisticated circuits and design the complex programs that will be required for home use.

Through the Cooperative Extension Service and S.C. Agricultural Experiment Station, Clemson is helping today's and training tomorrow's food producers.

Agents in 46 counties give the public access to experts in every area of agri-business, home economics and consumer affairs. Experiment Station researchers are working to find better fruits and vegetables through genetic engineering, ways to save precious fuel, soil and water and answers to difficult questions about obesity, hypertension, food additives or air and water pollution.

President Bill Atchley puts it this way: "The challenges of the 1980s will not be met unless universities give young people not only an education, but the training to think, to ask and to try." Clemson's 76 undergraduate and 54 graduate programs are doing just that.

Tigers In The Pros

By Berny Delgado

There is a certain addiction to Clemson football that almost leaves its fans intoxicated with a euphoria that requires an easy let down period. What does the Clemson fan do for the case of withdrawal he suffers from on Sunday afternoon? Why, pro football of course, and with the recent influx of Tiger alums into the ranks, Clemson football fans can handle their withdrawal period without much problem.

Before 1978, Clemson had only seven players active in the Professional Football League, but since the 1978 draft more and more Tiger alums have become scattered among the National Football League as well as the Canadian clubs. The 1978 draft found 12 of Clemson's 19 graduating seniors entering the pro leagues, several were first round choices as well as the free agents. Since then, an average of six players a year have been taken through the draft and currently 15 Tigers remain active (13 in the NFL and two in Canada).

What has Clemson done to prepare these Tigers? Dwight Clark, wide receiver for the San Francisco 49ers who played in the shadows of Jerry Butler while at Clemson, did not set any records nor did he even make an all-conference team in his last two seasons. "Even though I did not catch many passes at Clemson, Coach Jimmie Laycock (former offensive coordinator who brought the passing offense to Clemson) really prepared me for the complicated pass patterns in the pros," commented Clark.

Clark is not the only Tiger to trade in his Clemson Jersey for a San Francisco 49ers jersey, but defensive tackle Archie Reese as well as defensive end Jim Stuckey have also left their "mark in San Francisco." These are only a few of the Tiger men who have used Clemson as a stepping stone to professional football. Here is a list of present players in the pros and some of their more impressive accomplishments.

LESTER BROWN SASKATCHEWAN ROUGHRIDERS

IN THE PROS. . . A seventh-round draft pick of the Dallas Cowboys in 1979, but was released and joined the Roughriders in late August. . . played seven games his first season with the club and grossed 114 carries for 590 yards with four touchdowns. . . he also caught 23 passes for a total of 187 yards. . . after completing his 1981 regular season with 192 carries for 818 yards, he is now ranked among the top 10 in his league in rushing.

DWIGHT CLARK SAN FRANCISCO 49ers

IN THE PROS. . . Starting his third season at wide receiver. . . Clark first came to San Francisco after being chosen in the 10th round of the 1979 draft. . . in his second year with the 49ers he caught over twice as many passes as he did in his entire collegiate career at Clemson as he snared 82. . . this number also surpassed any former player in the 49ers club history. . . "he's an all-weather receiver who can catch the ball in any situation," according to Coach Bill Walsh. . . this season he has continued his fine play with 49 catches in nine games, the second best total in the league and the best mark for wide receivers.

JOE BOSTIC ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

IN THE PROS. . . Was drafted in third round in 1979. . . filled in for injured Cardinals best lineman, Dan Dierdorf. . . played in all 16 games his first season and started in 14. . . like his brother Jeff at Washington, he was the only offensive lineman not to miss a game after he started in 1980. . . he was also awarded the game ball for his play in the victory over Houston (1979). . . was named to Football Digest All-Rookie Team in 1979. . . was named offensive star of the game by the coaches following a victory against the Giants, November 30, 1980. . . also received the game ball that week. . . now in his second season as a starter.

The Incredible Broadcasting Team.

Then, as the super-charged fans watch the Tigers take to the gridiron, Jim Phillips (kneeling) and Scott Shannon (right end) take to the air to bring all the action to fans throughout the Carolinas, Georgia, and beyond.

After the game, the Fifth Quarter, hosted by Greg Anderson (left end) and Joe Fletcher (second from right), features the most comprehensive football scoreboard in the Southeast, with direct reports from other games, "replays" of the Clemson game, and interviews with players and coaches.

It's a super Saturday of football excitement!

"A great place to be."

CHEVY CAVALIER THE ESCAPE HATCH

Escape to where you long to be.

Here's the kind of engineering designed to take you miles away from the middle of the road. The 1982 Cavalier Hatchback. A brand-new car that owes its creation to innovation. Not imitation.

Escape with the goods.

Reclining front seats, power brakes, side and rear window defoggers and a remote hatch release (quite a remote feature on ordinary hatchbacks) combine with 38 other standard features to make the '82 Cavalier the most complete new car we've ever introduced.

On the technical side, innovations in front-wheel drive, aerodynamic design and operating efficiency help add up to 43 Est. Highway/[26] EPA Est. MPG.* And engine buffs will be interested to know Cavalier's standard 1.8 Liter, 4-cylinder engine actually delivers more horsepower per liter than some highly regarded V8s.

Plan your escape now.

Your Chevy dealer can help put your escape plan in motion, starting with a test drive. Get inside. Drive it around the block. Then all that's left to do is to decide whether you want to buy or lease a new 1982 Cavalier. Whichever you choose, one thing's for sure:

You won't have any trouble at all adjusting to your new freedom.

*Use estimated MPG for comparisons. Your mileage may differ depending on speed, distance, weather. Actual highway mileage lower. Chevrolets are equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.

Jerry Gaillard

By Cricket Yates

Clemson supporters owe a great amount of gratitude to the late Clarence Gaillard, a longtime IPTAY member from Seneca, South Carolina. Through his constant badgering of former Head Coach Charley Pell, the Tigers have his nephew as a starting wide receiver on their number-two ranked team. Three-year starter Jerry Gaillard might not have come to Clemson had it not been for his persistent uncle who sent Pell clippings, statistics and everything he could get his hands on about the 6-0 Yuma, Arizona product. Pell finally saw some film and decided the Clemson program could use Clarence's nephew.

Thank goodness for the elder Gaillard's pestering because the 21-year-old "Army brat" now ranks ninth on the all-time Clemson career receiving list. He stands behind some fine company in Pittsburgh Steeler Bennie Cunningham, Dallas Cowboy star Charlie Waters, Saskatchewan Roughrider Joey Walters (the Canadian Football League's leading receiver) and Buffalo Bill Jerry Butler. And this does not include teammate, Perry Tuttle, who just surpassed Butler's all-time receiving yardage record with 2,225 yards.

The combination of Gaillard and Tuttle has caught 191 passes between them, which is more than any pass-catching duo in Clemson history. The two have worked well together as starters for three years and Gaillard's compatriot will be the first to document Gaillard's ability.

"Jerry has as much ability as anyone and he will get a solid chance in the pros, just like Dwight Clark has gotten," said Tuttle. "I've had a lot more passes thrown my way over the last three years and that's why I have better stats and have set more records. But Jerry runs great routes, has good hands and I think he'll have a great shot of making it in pro ball."

The obvious comparison between the lean Gaillard and Tuttle is the "Dwight Clark-Jerry Butler" syndrome all over again. Clark tackled the problem with this philosophy, "Your self-satisfaction comes through your participation and total team effort. As long as you know you're doing your part, everything always works out."

Gaillard agrees with Clark's attitude and uses the present pro star's experiences as motivation.

"Dwight and I are probably very much alike. His entire career here wasn't flashy, but he went pro and now he's second in the NFL in receptions. It gives hope for other people that don't get a lot of publicity and perhaps can make it. It happens all the time."

Thus far during his career, Gaillard has caught 21 more passes than the San Francisco 49er Clark did in his career in Tigertown. Clark had 33 receptions for 571 yards, while Gaillard is already at the 58 reception mark with 758 yards.

Denver Bronco scout Lyde Huggins said that a lot of guys are overlooked by some people, but that Gaillard shows great potential as a pro player, "He's got great hands and runs the precision routes well. He has a great awareness of defensive players."

His own coach, Lawson Holland, echoed the scouts sentiments, "Jerry is aggressive and just plain mentally tough. His biggest asset is that he has a great football instinct. It is like having another coach on the field."

Perhaps it is Gaillard's positive attitude that strengthens the Anderson-born native's determination.

"A lot of coaches look at size and think because someone is bigger, they can play better. But that's not always true. I think if the desire in your heart is right, you can do just as good a job as anybody."

His belief is apparent in the case of his recent knee injury. Gaillard was hurt in the Tulane game and the injury was supposed to have taken 4-6 weeks to heal. But Jerry Gaillard could not accept that.

"In all my years of football, I had never seriously been injured. When I hurt my knee, I didn't think it was major until I woke up the next morning and couldn't move it. Perhaps, I'm more determined because of it as I want to make up for the games I missed (Georgia, Kentucky).

Administrative Assistant Don Denning documents his determination, "He's got 'stickability' which is the ability to stick with whatever the case may be. In this case, it was his knee injury."

Head Coach Danny Ford calls him "a dependable person and leader" and Holland calls him, "an inspirational player." To friends, he's known as "Smokey" because he, "runs like a cloud of smoke."

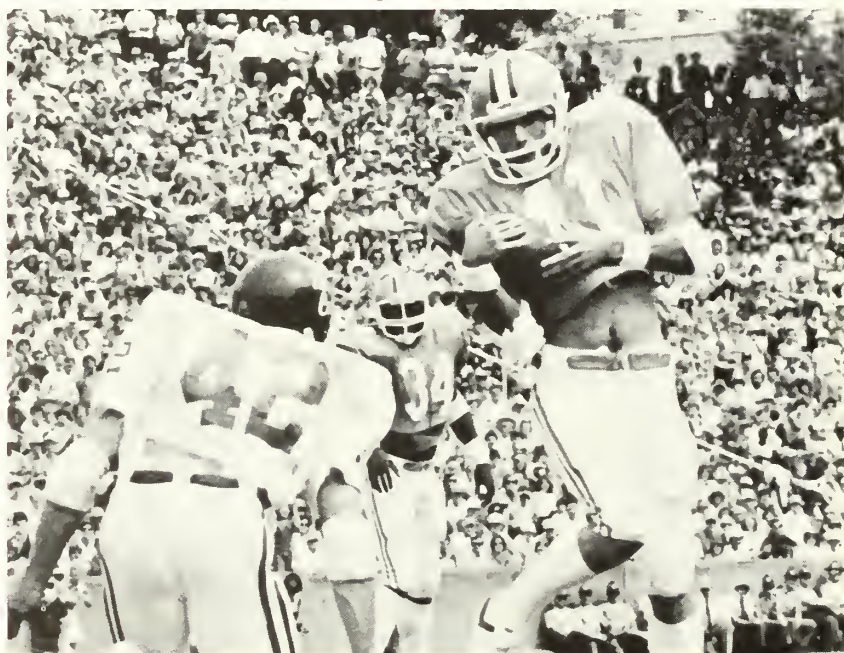

"Roadrunner" would probably be a more appropriate name for the 180-pound senior. With his father in the Army, Gaillard has lived in nine different homes. The roster includes Kentucky, Texas, Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Arizona, Los Angeles and South America.

"Before I went to the Panama Canal, I was going into the eighth grade. I was pretty naive. I thought I would have to swing on vines to go to school, but I found out it wasn't like that at all. The most important thing I've learned about moving around is the friendships you find. I'm more socially adaptable because I've had to move."

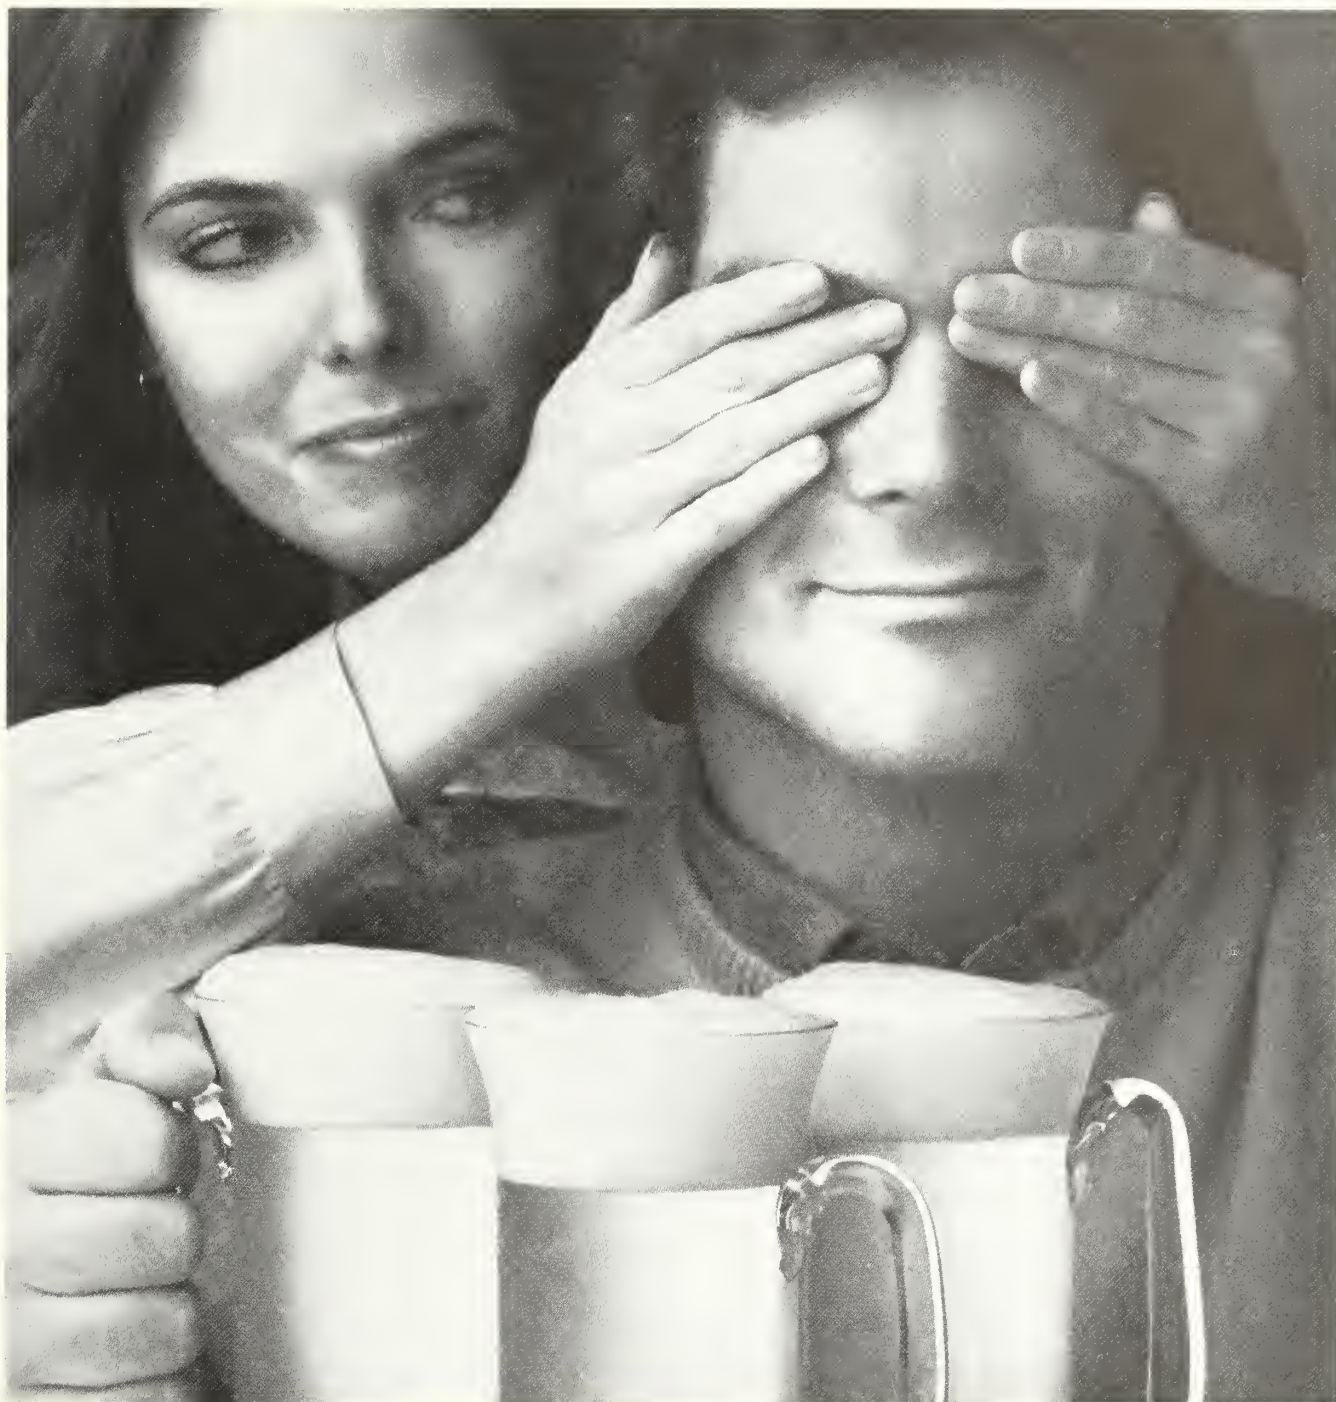

"When I was thinking about colleges, I thought about all the places I had lived before. I wanted some place that I could feel some roots."

"Smokey's" ties with Clemson are numerous. Besides his Uncle Clarence, his father and sister were born in Seneca. His grandmother lives 13 miles away and his mother was born in nearby Fairplay.

"When people look at the roster, they say, 'Yuma, Arizona! Wow! Is he crazy coming so far from home?' But actually, it's not really that far. I think of it as coming back home."

At Home at Clemson

If you think you could pick your beer with your eyes closed, here's your chance.

Up for some real sport? Probably only one in three beer drinkers can pass this test.

Still game? Then grab a Schlitz and two other premium beers. (Make sure one is your favorite.)

Close your eyes, and have a friend pour each beer into separate cups. Now taste each one and tell your friend which premium beer is yours.

If you picked Schlitz instead of your regular, don't be surprised. A lot of beer drinkers do.

A few years ago a master brewer named Frank Sellinger came to Schlitz. He came to be president and to make the smoothest beer yet. One taste will tell you, this is it!

THE HIGHEST ENERGY BILL
OWNERS OF THIS 1,804 SQ. FT. HOME

PAID ALL
LAST YEAR
WAS $33.61
IN JANUARY
THANKS TO

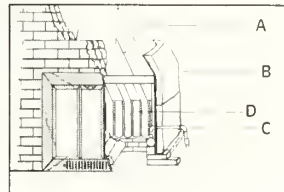

A SUNPAL WATERHEATING FIREPLACE.

Developed by a Mechanical Engineering graduate of Clemson University, the patented SunPal Waterheating Fireplace can be installed in several ways to save money on energy, in spite of rising costs.

Teamed with solar heat in the home above, it held power cost, in a month with 21 rainy days, to less than $34, including lights, appliances and hot water. But you don't have to go solar to enjoy the beauty, comfort and savings of a SunPal Fireplace. It can be used with other central heating systems in many present homes, in a room added to your home, or with water lines installed in new slab construction.

Use the coupon below to get more information. Not only on the way SunPal worked in the home shown here, but the way it can work for you.

Shown at left, foil insulation A, fiberglass insulation B, water inlet C, and part of the 40 sq. ft. water pipe surface D that, with a 1,000 gal. heat storage tank, warms room air for up to 48 hrs.

ANOTHER COMPLETED POINSETT PROJECT.

In Poinsett Construction's seven years in business we have erected over 400 commercial and industrial buildings for clients in the Carolinas, Georgia and Tennessee.

When this structure, the Greenwood Motor Line headquarters in Greenwood, S.C., was completed in 1980 it represented our fifth construction assignment for the same client.

Another example of Poinsett's steady growth is seen in our work in the pre-engineered building field. Last year we were named the nation's No. 1 builder of Pasco pre-engineered structures.

Whether your needs be commercial, industrial, or pre-engineered, and whether they call for a new facility, or for addition or renovation to an existing building, Poinsett Construction Co., Inc. can bring them in to your complete satisfaction.

What's News

He sees the game
through a camera's eye

By Wally Bowen
Clemson News Services

"It's a jungle down there on the sidelines." Vince Ducker didn't say that, but he could have. Ducker shoots color film of Clemson football and basketball, and his camera work is seen Sunday afternoons on WFBC's Danny Ford and Bill Foster shows.

Ducker is one of many unsung heroes who helps make Clemson athletics an exciting South Carolina tradition. But success has its price.

Strapped to 30 pounds of equipment, one eye in the camera and the other watching action downfield, Ducker is an easy target for tacklers chasing ball carriers out-of-bounds. "I've had some close calls and I've seen people knocked down all around me," says Ducker. But so far he's had just one mishap—a pants-leg ripped by a flying cleat.

"Sometimes I have to cut off the camera and run, but when you're kneeling you either have to brace for the collision and take it or roll over and try to get away the best you can," he says.

To make matters even more risky, his camera's wide angle lens makes the action look far away and hinders his judgment of when to bail out.

Not all the hazards of filming football come from players. Ducker has been accosted more than once by unfriendly state troopers, usually when he's filming on the road. "I have to be very careful, especially on the road, not to wear my orange," he says. He recalls a game at Wake Forest when he was filming from their sideline. "I got excited and carried away when Clemson made a good play. The next thing I know a Wake Forest coach is after me ready to fight."

Even the weather can work against him. "Rainy days give me fits," he says. Like weather and sports, filming football can be unpredictable.

"I was having a bad day once in Virginia. Rain was coming down in sheets, and I was worried about having enough footage for the show.

Then this play started on our own 20-yardline. I was filming from the other end of the field.

"The rain was coming down and I had the camera in tight on the ball carrier, and the play kept developing and developing. Then I realized that this is the one. I followed him all the way down the field for an 80-yard touchdown. That one play was worth it all."

It's no surprise that Ducker says he can't enjoy a game while filming it. So every Sunday afternoon he videotapes the TV show and replays it several times, critiquing his work and savoring the better moments.

Capturing big plays on film is a game of chance, a fact not readily understood by many fans, says Ducker. "I've had some people ask me why I don't just film the big plays," he says.

In addition to intuition and simple luck, getting the big plays on film requires a unique skill that could make a less resolute soul a little schizophrenic. Pass plays are a good example.

As the pass play develops, Ducker focuses on the quarterback, all the while keeping his uncovered eye on pass receivers as they make their cuts downfield. When the quarterback throws, Ducker is better able to judge the ball's direction and the area of the field to which he should pan his camera. "It tends to make you a little cross-eyed after awhile," he says.

Ducker came to cinematography via stints with the Marine Corps and the Greenville News as a still photographer. He moved into his current role after coming to Clemson in 1971. Though he's best known for his work with Clemson athletics, Ducker also uses his talents in videotaping for agricultural extension and other areas of university academic life. In 1981 he won two major national awards for his work from the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education.

Vince Ducker captures Tiger football from the sidelines.

TODAY'S BAND PROGRAM

By Cricket Yates

In the final band program of the year, the band salutes its own senior members during the pre-game activities.

Tiger Band enters the field to "Tiger Rag" and "Sock it to 'Em," their traditional entry. Dotting the "i" for today's game will be senior Commander Bill Bird and Drum Major Joe Ballard representing the seniors who will be introduced at this time.

Halftime opens up with Barbara Steisand's "Let's Hear it for Me" arranged by Assistant Band Director, Rod Harkins. Following the popular tune, the Hall of Fame inductees will be honored. They include Choppy Patterson, Charlie Waters, Net Berry, R. G. Hamilton, and Harvey White. Special inductees will be John Heisman and Dr. Lee Milford.

The Rally Cats will dance to remind Tiger fans that basketball season is on its way. The Tigers open their basketball season at 4:30 this afternoon with an exhibition game against Marathon Oil. The Rally Cats, captained by Kim Miller of Seneca, will perform to "Manhattan Skyline," arranged for them and the Tiger Band by Associate Professor of Music, Dr. Edwin A. Freeman.

The Classic Revisited

By Jeff Rhodes

The Classics.

The very name brings visions of the Notre Dame-Michigan State game in 1966, the Texas-Arkansas classic of 1969, and the Oklahoma-Nebraska shoot out in 1971. Tiger fans can justifiably add the Maryland game of 1978 to that list of epic struggles.

This tilt on November 18 had all of the ingredients necessary to be labeled a "classic." Both teams were nationally ranked—Maryland eleventh and Clemson twelfth. Both teams had one loss—the Tigers, 8-1, had fumbled away the game to Georgia, 12-0, and Maryland, 9-1, had bowed to number-one ranked Penn State, 27-3. Both teams were statistical leaders—Clemson was leading the ACC in 11 team and four individual categories and was ranked second nationally in scoring defense, while Maryland led the conference in six team (including total offense and defense) and two individual departments.

The most important ingredient in this game, though, was the fact it was for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

The week before the game, excitement rose to an all-time high. The Clemson ticket office was swamped with orders for tickets that no longer existed, as tickets had already been sold and reordered three times. Maryland announced an additional 2,500 temporary seats had to be added, and seven chartered planes were readied to take the Tiger faithful to College Park.

"I imagine that very few students had their minds on classwork that week," said All-ACC linebacker Randy Scott. "All of the students were either going to the game or were going to watch it in Littlejohn (on closed-circuit TV). Everybody was behind us and they even had a pep rally in front of the dorm. As the excitement built, we knew we could beat them, but it would be a fight."

Defensive tackle Rich Tuten added, "We had 17 seniors that had started since they were sophomores and those 17 wanted the championship badly."

The Clemson-Maryland rivalry had begun in 1952 when the two schools were put on probation by the Southern Conference for violating the conference rule on postseason bowl games. The 27th renewal of the rivalry began when Ed Loncar's kickoff was downed in the end zone by Clemson's Willie Jordan.

The game gave early indications that it would be a defensive struggle, as the Tigers' first three drives were for 1, 14, and 4 yards. Maryland's first two possessions went for 3 and 9 yards, but the Terrapins got untracked on the third go-round.

Facing a second and 23 situation at the 26, Maryland quarterback Tim O'Hare hit wide receiver Dean Richards with a 22-yard pass that set up Alvin Maddox's run for the first down on the next play. Three O'Hare passes and two more runs by Maddox moved the Terps to the Tiger 3. Maddox capped the 61-yard drive with a three-yard touchdown run and Loncar added the point after.

Using a combination of runs by Lester Brown, Marvin Sims, and Steve Fuller, and an important 23-yard reception by Jerry Butler, the Tigers moved to the Terp 1. On fourth down, Fuller took it over for the six points. Obed Ariri tacked on the point, and the score was 7-7.

Neither team mounted another serious offensive charge in the first half. With 22 seconds left in the second stanza, though, Neal Olkewicz rushed through the line and blocked David Sims' punt attempt and Michael Carney covered the ball for the score. Loncar's extra point gave the home team a 14-7 lead going into the locker room.

"Needless to say, we were concerned at the half," said Coach Charley Pell.

After an exchange of punts, Clemson tied the count with a bomb. Fuller passed to Butler across the middle, and in the immortal words of Jim Phillips, the radio voice of the Tigers, Butler was "off to the races." Butler finally stopped running in the end zone after the 87-yard pass-catch touchdown play.

Maryland wasted little time in returning the lightning-quick touchdown play, however. Senior running back Steve Atkins took O'Hare's handoff from his own two three plays after the Tigers scored, and he did not stop running until he reached the end zone 98 yards later. Loncar's kick put Maryland ahead again, 21-14.

The excitement was not over yet, though, as Marvin Sims ran straight at the Terrapin line on four carries to help move the Tigers from their 11 to the 38. Fuller then threw to flanker Dwight Clark on the same pattern Butler had run, and 62 yards later Clark crossed the goal line. Ariri knotted the score for the third time that day at 21 apiece.

After an exchange of punts, Clemson started its last scoring drive at the 30. Fuller engineered a 70-yard overland assault that ate up 3:37 of rapidly dwindling time in the fourth quarter. Lester Brown went the final five yards on Fuller's pitch. Ariri kicked the final extra point of the day and the Tigers led for the first time at 28-21.

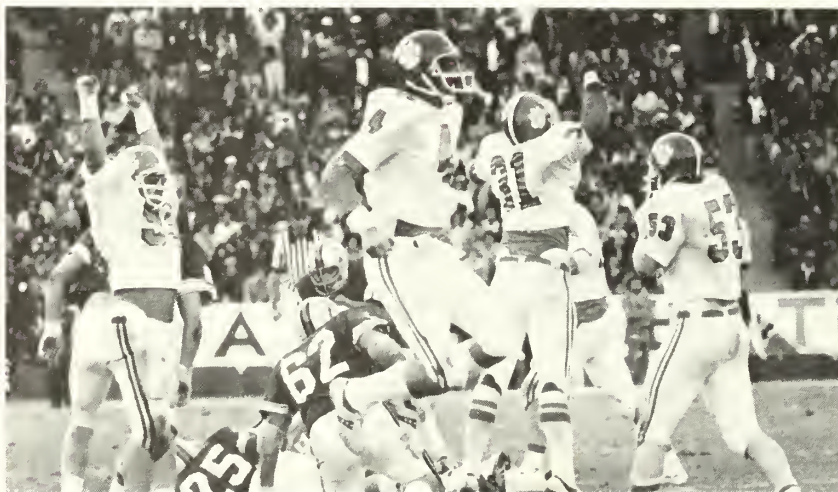

Maryland had one last chance and the Terrapins nearly pulled the game out. O'Hare passed and Atkins ran and the Terps moved from their 31 to the Tiger 6. Dean Richards tried an option pass, but he was sacked for a loss of 11 yards by Bubba Brown. With a fourth and 17, Loncar kicked a 35-yard field goal and the score stood at 28-24 Tigers with 1:56 to play.

"A lot of people probably asked why we kicked the field goal," said Maryland coach Jerry Claiborne. "We thought that to make 20 yards in one play, our chances were slim and if we scored, we'd have to go for two. So, we thought we'd go for the field goal and try to get the ball back on the onside kick."

Anthony Rose covered the onside kick to end the Maryland threat, and Fuller & Company ran out the clock to wrap up the win.

After the game, the Tigers accepted the invitation for a return trip to the Gator Bowl and the Terrapins accepted a bid to the Sun Bowl.

Move over Notre Dame and Texas, another game has been added to the List of Legends.
